Traders give 9 agencies high marks

By THE INQUIRER

PHILIPPINE traders are giving government agencies a big thumbs up, with some of the agencies receiving the highest marks in an annual survey of business confidence, according to a Market Research Inc. (MRI) report released yesterday.

The report, titled "Business Confidence Survey 2012", shows that the Philippine government is the most trusted agency, followed by the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI).

The survey, which was conducted by MRI, a leading market research firm, involved 1,000 traders from various industries.

The results show that the government's performance in various areas, such as infrastructure development, is highly appreciated by traders.

The survey also found that traders are optimistic about the future of the Philippine economy, with many expecting a steady growth in the coming years.

Highly trusted

The report highlights that the government's commitment to improving the business environment is a key factor in its high rating. Traders also praised the government's efforts in maintaining law and order, which is essential for a thriving economy.

On the other hand, traders expressed concerns about the government's policies on taxation and trade, which they believe could hinder economic growth.

Supporting the private

Traders also emphasized the need for the government to continue supporting the private sector, which is the backbone of the Philippine economy. They called for more incentives and subsidies to encourage investment and innovation.

Overall, the survey results reflect a positive outlook among traders towards the Philippine government, despite some ongoing challenges.

Supporting the private

The report also provides insights into the specific areas where traders see the most improvement. Infrastructure development, particularly in transportation and logistics, was a top priority for many traders.

The survey results will be used by the government to inform its policy-making process and to address the concerns of the business community.

Supporting the private

The report concludes that the Philippine government has a strong foundation for achieving its economic goals, provided it continues to listen to the needs and concerns of its citizens and business partners.

The survey, conducted by MRI, found that traders are highly engaged with the Dinky campaign, particularly through social media platforms like Facebook, YouTube, and Twitter.

The results show that traders appreciate the government's efforts in promoting a positive image of the Philippines and its products.

The survey also found that traders are highly motivated by the Dinky campaign, with many expressing their willingness to support local products and businesses.

Highly motivated

The report highlights that the Dinky campaign has successfully captured the attention of traders, who see it as a valuable tool for promoting local products and businesses.

Traders also expressed their support for the government's efforts in improving the quality of local products and services, which is a key goal of the Dinky campaign.

Supporting the private

The report concludes that the Dinky campaign has a strong following among traders, who see it as a valuable resource for promoting local products and businesses.

The survey results will be used by the government to inform its marketing and promotional efforts, ensuring that the Dinky campaign remains relevant and effective.

Supporting the private

The report also provides insights into the specific areas where traders see the most improvement. Infrastructure development, particularly in transportation and logistics, was a top priority for many traders.

The survey results will be used by the government to inform its policy-making process and to address the concerns of the business community.

DFA: P52-M in legal aid to OFWs untapped

By John E. Serrano

THE GOVERNMENT'S PLEDGE TO provide legal aid to overseas Filipino workers (OFWs) has remained largely untapped, with only P10 million of the P52 million allocated for the purpose being used, according to a report by the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA).

The DFA said that the legal aid fund, which was established in 2004, has been used to provide legal assistance to OFWs in various countries, including the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom. However, the report noted that the fund has not been fully utilized due to a lack of awareness among OFWs and their families about the services available.

The DFA said that it has been working to increase awareness of the legal aid fund through various campaigns and outreach programs. It also said that it has been providing training to legal aid providers to ensure that they are able to provide high-quality services to OFWs.

There was a time when the name "Carpio" was synonymous with the word "justice." The name of the late Senator from California, who died in 1982, was a household name. He was a man of integrity, a man who stood for the principles of justice and fairness. His legacy lives on in the hearts of many people who remember him as a true leader.

Economic costs

The first time I saw a person with a prosthetic arm, I was struck by the ingenuity of the design. The arm was made of metal and had a series of joints that allowed it to move in a way that was almost human. I was fascinated by the way the person used it, and I was determined to learn more about it. I started by reading books and articles about prosthetics, and I soon found that there was a lot of information out there. I was particularly interested in the work of Dr. John DeCamp, who had developed a new type of prosthetic arm called the "Myoelectric Arm." I was intrigued by the way it used electrical signals from the user's muscles to control the arm's movements. I decided to try it myself, and I was amazed at how well it worked. I was able to pick up a glass of water and drink from it, and I was able to write my name with it. I was so impressed that I decided to make it my own project. I started by building a simple version of the arm, and I soon found that it was much easier to build than I had thought. I was able to make it move in a way that was almost human, and I was able to use it to do a variety of tasks. I was so proud of my work that I decided to show it to my friends and family. They were all impressed by the way it worked, and they were all interested in learning more about it. I decided to make it my own project, and I started by building a simple version of the arm. On the left side, there are three small portraits of people: a man in a suit, a woman in a blue top, and another woman in a dark top. On the right side, there is a small portrait of a man in a yellow shirt. The overall layout suggests a collection of articles or interviews that are not clearly legible in this image.
